LOCAL BREVITIES.

Fresh cakes to-day.—Sulzer's.
For milk toast go to the City Bakery.
Born, to the wife of Gus Brown, Aug. 31, a fine boy.

There's money in it, sure! trading with Sulzer's.
Nail the bargains quick at Sulzer's hardware sale.

Look out for the big picnic to be given at Holt, August 11.

Fresh crackers and cakes just received at the City Bakery.

Try some of our new fresh cakes, just in to-day.—Sulzer's.

Keep the ball rolling and buy a croquet set at Sulzer's.

Dollars count. If you are building get Sulzer's prices on hardware.

Wanted regular and transient boarders Mrs. Molly Jolly, the old Bassett House.

The picnic at Holt next Saturday, the 11th, inst., promises to be a grand affair.

If Johnnie gets a new gun this season it would be well for him to consult with Sulzer's.

A drawing card—the fine tea which Sulzer's make a specialty of keeping always on hand.

Mrs. Henry Pool, colored, died at her home in this city, of consumption, Monday, the 6th inst.

Judge Gregory issued thirty warrants last Monday for the owners of dogs who had not paid the tax on them.

Go to Minor's Grove next Saturday and spend a pleasant day with your friends. The picnic there will be a good one.

Sulzer, the shoe man, is a firm believer in woman's rights and woman's lexis, too. He has some very stylish ones for $2 a pair.

The City Council had a tame meeting Monday night. They simply passed about $100 worth of just claims and adjourned.

Mrs. Molly Jolly has moved into the Bassett House, where she will keep hotel in connection with her mother, Mrs. R. B. Cox, of Union Star.

Why suffer with decayed teeth? Dr. L. W. German, dentist, of Louisville, will be in Cloverport, Friday, Aug. 10th. He will be located as formerly with Dr. Watkins. Prices to suit the times.

It is with pleasure that we note the fact that Mr. T. S. Getzendanner, brother of Mr. Geo. Getzendanner, of this city, was nominated for Auditor by the Republicans of Harrison county, Indiana, last Saturday.

Mr. Leon McGavock has sold his interest in the furniture and hardware business at Leitchfield and has accepted a position as traveling salesman with the wholesale grocery establishment of Cable Bros. & Co., of Louisville. Mr. McGavock was in this city last week on his first trip. He is a clever gentleman, a good man and we congratulate Cable Bros. & Co. on obtaining so efficient a gentleman to represent their interests in this section.

Death of John S. Lightfoot.

Mr. John S. Lightfoot, the venerable father of ex-Mayor C. E. Lightfoot, died in Rockport, Ind. last Sunday night. He went down there some time ago to visit his daughter, Mrs. Mary Gabbert, and it was at her home that he breathed his last. He was 75 years of age, and had been in feeble health for quite a while, his death being caused by a general breaking down of the system. His remains were brought to this city and interred in the City Cemetery yesterday.

Stand By The Party.

SHEPHERSVILLE, KY., August 6, 1894.—Breckenridge News.—Complete returns give Bullitt county to Mr. Murray by three majorities. This poll was almost solid for Murray. Montgomery carried Zoneton 19, Belmont 1, Pitts Point 4, Leaches 30, Mt. Washington 31, Clermont 32.

Murray carried Lebanon Junction and Shepherdsville. Everything was quiet. We promised Bullitt to Murray, and while the majority was small it was a majority to be proud of. Right here under shadows of Montgomery's house, and hard by the outer walls of Ben Johnson's stronghold. Somebody was too sanguine; some one did too much predicting. We lost a good fight, still fighting. Montgomery is the nominee. Let us rally around the old flag and press forward. Trusting that brave, courteous, honest Dave Murray will yet go to Congress, begging the Democracy to vote for Montgomery, and thanking the News for many favors.

I am sympathetically yours,
J. ROBERT ZIMMERMAN.

SNAKE! SNAKE!!

A Desperate Fight Occurs With a Reptile in a Cloverport Saloon.

Last Monday afternoon "Fatty" Reid, engineer on the Texas road and "Stiff" Clemens, coppersmith at the machine shops, were in Boyd's saloon, one of our finest saloons, situated in the very heart of the city. The two gentlemen were leisurely leaning on the bar discussing the result of the primary with Geo. Boyd, the bartender. All at once Boyd threw up his hands, his eyes popped almost out of his head, and they were fixed with a cold stare at the floor toward the rear of the building. Reid and Clemens turned their faces in the direction that Boyd's eyes indicated and they saw a sight that almost made their blood stand still. What appeared to be a large copperhead snake was leisurely crawling toward the bar. All three of the men were completely paralyzed. They knew that they were temperate, sober men, and that the saloon was noted for the pure quality of goods sold at its bar. Still they could hardly trust their senses, and each was afraid to ask the other if he saw anything. In fact they had a faint idea that they "had 'em." At last Reid could stand it no longer, and, snake or no snake, he was not going to let that wicked-looking reptile come any closer without a fight, so he jumped at it with both feet and went to stamping in regular "jim-jam" fashion. Clemens and Boyd joined in the fray and such another snake battle was never witnessed in any saloon on earth before. As the snake writhed and slashed around their feet and legs, changing its position so rapidly, it actually looked like it was a dozen or more snakes, and the impression was fast becoming fixed in the minds of the gentlemen that they "had 'em" sure enough. Finally Reid's heel "bruised the serpent's head" and the fight was over. The commotion brought Geo. W. Short, the sober druggist, next door, into the room, and not until he had viewed the corpse and told the gentleman that it was actually a copperhead snake, were their minds relieved. Fortunately nobody was bitten, but Mr. Clemens was out a seven-dollar silk umbrella which he had smashed up in the fray. The snake was a very large one of the kind. It had probably harbored in the back yard among boxes and old lumber all summer, and getting a traveling spell on it Monday afternoon, it had entered the building at the back door, probably thinking it was Sunday, and was making its way up front.

DEFEATED.

Murray Could Not Stem the Tide, but He Goes Down With Colors Flying.

The primary election is over, and Murray is defeated. He fought a brave and noble fight, but the powers were against him. The fight in all parts of the district, excepting Breckenridge county, was hot, and the strife was bitter. In this county, however, while the Murray men were enthusiastic, there was not enough opposition to make it interesting. A good vote was polled; and the county gave Mr. Murray a majority that he justly feels proud of. The following majorities in the district, while not official, will approximate the truth:

Montgomery Murray
Grayson.....	65
Green.....	362
Hardin.....	843
Hart.....	567
LaRue.....	401
Meade.....	550
Nelson.....	349
Ohio.....	400
Washington.....	196
Taylor.....	20
Breckenridge.....	800
Bullitt.....	3
Marion.....	363
Total.....	3333

GOOD DEMOCRAT.

Mr. Murray Is Too Great a Man To Be Guilty of Doing the Baby Act.

EDITOR NEWS:—Though not officially determined, it is evident that I have been defeated in my race for the nomination for Congress by the Democratic party in the 4th District.

I take this method of expressing my gratitude to my friends throughout the District for their support, and in numerous instances, personal devotions.

May I ask all who supported me to actively rally to the support of our party and its representative in the race for Congress, Mr. Montgomery. I am so earnestly of the belief that the preservation of the rights of the people and restoration and maintenance of their prosperity must depend upon the carrying out of the principles of Democracy and that the defeat of our doctrines means disaster to the great body of our citizens that I take the liberty of asking those who supported me to work and vote for Mr. Montgomery.

The situation of the race and the influence brought to bear were too strong for me to successfully combat but I am in the fight for my party and its principles and whenever I can be of service I will willingly contribute my time, labor and voice during the coming campaign.

I again urge every Democrat to go to the support of the party's nominee and preserve our rights and liberties and bring posterity to the people by preserving Democratic doctrine and principles.

SIROCCO.

Mrs. Wm. Bewley is on the sick list. Hon. Gus Richardson attended the picnic at Andyville.

Bob Malin, Brandenburg, is visiting Gabe Board and took in the picnic.

Mrs. Wm. Jones is visiting her daughter in Indiana this week.

B. W. Hardy shipped a nice drove of hogs on Tuesday's boat.

Miss Cora Neafus, of Louisville, and Miss Eula Neafus, of Brandenburg, are visiting their uncle, J. C. Neafus this week.

Thomas Phillips is in our vicinity with his cyclone thrasher, and is turning out the golden grain in a hurry.

Mr. Rhoda Thornberry, wife and daughter are visiting Mrs. Thornberry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hendry, of Preston.

Mrs. L. Morgan and family and Robt. Ashcraft and family spent Saturday and Sunday the 28th and 29th ult., in Little Bend, the guests of their uncle, Rice Fullenwider.

Henry Harrington, the jovial jailer, stopped on his way to Andyville picnic to refresh the inner man with a draught of "adam's ale" and in return treated the Siroccos to a little back shuffle which would have made his colored "bredren" blush with shame for their dethroned skill.

Hickerson and Current are silent on the subject of stock law since the cartoon appeared in the News several weeks ago. It seemed to be such a hard pull both ways, only those that were on the fence, like the boy on the hog for instance, could see any fun in it.

I saw "Nancy Hanks and Oliver" at the picnic but as Nancy failed to scrape up acquaintance with me at Paynesville that time when she had all the fun of "sizing me up" when I was ignorant of the fact of her being present, I retaliated by watching her and Oliver take in the picnic and wondered if they knew that Sirocco was about.

I am indebted to my old friend Fannie Rhodes for an introduction to Mr. Carl Richardson, Breckenridge's Democratic nominee for county clerk, who attended the picnic at Andyville, the 31st, ult. For having conceived the idea that Mr. Richardson was the Union Star correspondent to this paper who wanted to "shake hands with Sirocco." Mr. Richardson said that he was not the correspondent referred to, but he had given vent to the very same expression mentioned above, so it seems that our mutual desires were gratified. As I had heard so much said to his credit, I was desirous of meeting him, and having met him, am favorably impressed with his gentlemanly qualities, and think that Breckenridge, like Meade, has been fortunate in selecting her Democratic nominee for said office. I fear though that he was not so "favorably impressed" with Sirocco. I having had a race through the dust that morning with Will Arnold, the Populist's nominee for the same office, against Dick Nevitt. Arnold tried to "dust me under" I suppose because I was a democrat. He said, after we arrived at the picnic ground, that it was because he thought "I was Dave Murray." You see Murray and Sirocco had "hate" just like. Not having been well for several days the dust filling my eyes and olfactory organs, tended to aggravate a nervous headache which developed into a "sleep-banisher" when I lay my weary limbs to rest that night.

Some horse jockeys crossed the river last week with a view to cheating the Kentuckians out of "their eyes." The trio consisted of Frank Woolf, John Singleton and Eli Jennings, all of Manchester. Woolf and Singleton had an old mule that was blind in both eyes. Jennings had an old horse minus one eye and was himself minus an eye. They swam their trading stock over the river and Woolf and Singleton after trying in vain to get rid of their blind donkey swam it back to the country from whence it came. Jennings was more plucky, after finding that there was no demand for blind stock in this neck of the woods, moved off up the river making a trade with some man up the bottom above Brandenburg, trading his one-eyed horse for a two-eyed animal of the same heretofore nature, but of somewhat different mold. Its ears look like they might have been made to reach back and fan the flies off of its body as far back as to where its caudal appendage reaches. Its hip bones stand up high and dry, not burdened with an ounce of flesh. Possessed with this valuable piece of property, he dropped back down the river and traded it to Clarence Gray for a horse blind in both eyes. He then swam the horse over the river and the trio of
